[00:16:51] It's been like unbelievable.
So what does it mean to you to be an Aggie?

[00:16:58] I think to be an Aggie means. I think it means to I guess like be strong, be firm on what you believe in. Be friendly and be inclusive. I think, you know, we have the list of the core values

[00:17:20] And, you know, you can interpret those how you want.

[00:17:27] But I definitely you know, even though they might seem corny whenever I see them like walking down the MSC, you know, it's crazy that it's kind of like a creed that everybody lives by. And I think it's something that every student should be should be participating in just because I mean, really, it's it's pretty broad. So you kind of have to participate in it. But I mean, those core values, I think that that really embodies what it means to be an Aggie and acting on them.

[00:18:01] I think that does too.
Do you know core values?

[00:18:05] Yeah. So, I mean, do I mean to say them?
Yeah.
So it's respect, excellence, leadership.

[00:18:14] There's two L's. I don't know the other L, selfless service.

[00:18:21] RELLIS, whats the I?
Integrity. Integrity. What's the other L? Did you say leadership?
I said leadership, I always forget the other L. Maybe theres one L. I don't think so.
There's definitely another L, we'll come back to it
